1. Rumors are being circulated among Chinese journalists in Shanghai that the Wen Hui Pao (文匯報), former Democratic League organ, will soon reappear under the presidency of HSU Hsiao-yen (許孝炎), former Vice Minister of Information and Regional Representative to the National Assembly from Hunan Province.
2. As a guarantee to erase the pro-Communist sympathies formerly exhibited in the Wen Hui Pao, HSU is said to have promised (? the Kuomintang ?) that more than half of the stock would be held by him as president of the paper. As an additional guarantee, HSU is relying on his reputation (pro-Kuomintang) among government and business circles established when he was Vice Minister of Information.
